PROPOSALS

FOR PUBLISHING A NEW UNIVERSAL GAZETTEER,
OR MODERN
GEOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY:
CONTAINING,
A full and authentic description of all the Empires, Kingdoms, Republics, States, provinces, Islands, Cities, Towns, Rivers, Seas, Bays, Gulfs, and Harbors, in the known world.

LIKEWISE,
The Government, Customs, Manners, and Religion of the inhabitants; with many interesting particulars relative to Trade, Manufactures, and Natural Curiosities.

By JOSEPH SCOTT,
AUTHOR OF THE
UNITED STATES GAZETTEER.

The advantages which this work possesses over every publication of the kind, are,

1st. IT will contain descriptions of many thousand places, which are not found in any of our Gazetteers.

2d. The new political divisions which have taken place, in those countries of Europe, in consequence of the French revolution; whilst a due regard will be paid to the old divisions, for the sake of those who read History.

3d. The account of several thousand places, will be more copious than is found in any other similar work.

4th. Many errors in former publications will be corrected, relative to latitude, longitude, situation, and extent of towns and countries.

5th. With respect to that part of the work which relate, to the United States, the author has received upwards of six hundred letters, and is daily receiving more, from gentlemen of the first information, in different parts of the Union, which will enable him to give a much more copious and correct topographical account of our counties, towns, rivers, soil, produce, and natural curiosities, than has ever been published.

CONDITIONS.

I. The new Universal Gazetteer will be printed on fine paper, with a handsome type, in octavo.

II. It will be comprised in thirty, or thirty-two numbers, of 56 pages each

III. Each number is to be a quarter of a dollar, to be paid on delivery.

IV In the course of the publication twenty-five maps will be delivered. Also, two plates, explanatory of the first principles of geography and astronomy.

V. The work will be published with all possible expedition.

VI. A list of the subscribers names will be annexed to the work.

RICKETT'S CIRCUS.

MR. RICKETT'S,

WITH the most sincere respect, acquaints his friends and the public, that he has returned to Philadelphia and will open his CIRCUS in Chesnut Street, next Wednesday evening, with a variety of NEW PERFORMANCES, some of which he selected during his tour through Canada, &c. Amongst which are, a just representation of

An INDIAN-SCALP-DANCE

Which he acquired from the chiefs of the Seven Nations at Caghnawaga

A GRAND CAVALCADE,

Consisting of Warriors in the dresses of the different nations of Asia, Africa, Europe and America.

The exercise of the BROAD SWORD,

In which he will introduce the GUARDS of each nation, and also a new AMERICAN GUARD mounted on the charger Conqueror.

A representation of
REAL ACTION,

Together with a number of extraordinary feats of Horsemanship, Stage Performances, Songs, Dances, and other agreeable entertainments, which he will not at present pretend to particularise, as he hopes by his exertion to render real satisfaction, and merit a continuance of that generous approbation and support which he so often experienced in this city, and for which he will ever feel the deepest sense of gratitude.

In the course of the evening there will be displayed several ludicrous scenes, in one of which Mr. R. will appear in a Canada Winter Dress.

The whole to conclude with Baptist going to the Election at St. Lauram.

N B The Circus has undergone a complete repair and is furnished with stoves that must render it extremely comfortable.

 The doors will be open at six—the performance to commence precisely at seven o'clock.

Box, one dollar: Pit, half a dollar.

Tickets to be had at the Bar of Oellers' Hotel, and at the Ticket Office adjoining the Circus.

AN ACT,

Limiting the time within which claims against the United States, for credits on the books of the Treasury, may be presented for allowance

BE it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That all credits on the books of the Treasury of the United States, for transactions during the late war, which, according to the course of the Treasury have hitherto been discharged by issuing certificates of registered debt, shall be forever barred and precluded from settlement or allowance, unless claimed by the proper creditors, or their legal representatives, on or before the first day of March, in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety-nine. And the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby required to cause this Act to be published in one or more of the public papers of each state.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT

JUNE 27, 1798.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That by virtue of an act, passed during the present session of Congress, so much of the act entituled "An Act making further provision for the support of public credit, and for the redemption of the public debt"—passed the third day of March, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-five, as bars from settlement or allowance, Certificates, commonly called Loan Office and final settlement Certificates, and Indents of Interests, is suspended until the twelfth day of June, which will be in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety nine.

That on the liquidation and settlement of the said Certificates, and Indents of Interest, at the Treasury, the Creditors will be entitled to receive Certificates of funded Three Per Cent. Stock equal to the amount of the said Indents, and the arrearages of interest due on their said Certificates, prior to the first day of January one thousand seven hundred and ninety one.

That the principal sums of the said Loan Office and final settlement Certificates, with the interest thereon, since the first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and ninety one, will be discharged after liquidation at the Treasury, by the payment of interest and reimbursement of principal, equal to the sums which would have been payable thereon, if the said Certificates had been subscribed, pursuant to the Acts making provision for the debts of the United States, contracted during the late war, and by the payment of other sums, equal to the market value of the remaining Stock, which would have been created by such subscriptions as aforesaid, which market value will be determined by the Comptroller of the Treasury.

PHILADELPHIA,

WEDNESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 26.

To the SENATE and HOUSE of REPRESENTATIVES of the COMMONWEALTH of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly met.

THE MEMORIAL,

Of the incorporated company, styled "the President, Managers and Company, of the Delaware and Schuylkill Canal Navigation,

Respectfully Sheweth,

THAT your MEMORIALISTS, since their incorporation, employing their best skill, assisted by an able and experienced engineer, have, to the utmost extent of their resources, and with all diligence, exerted themselves in the prosecution of the great work committed to their management, and have, from time to time, communicated, to the Legislature and their fellow-citizens, its gradual progress, and the difficulties they have labored under from sundry causes; the chief of which have been, the great increase in the price of labor, a growing scarcity of money, and more particularly the liberty allowed by law, even for solvent shareholders, to refuse payment and forfeit their shares, when they get discouraged or dissatisfied with the work, under an apprehension that it cannot be completed within the time prescribed in the Act; and that it is better to forfeit a part of their interest early, than to forfeit their whole rights and privileges to the Legislature at last, if the Canal should not be completed at the expiration of 10 years from the date of the act, which will be on April 10th 1802.

To those communications, remaining among your files, and for the most part collected and laid before the public, in a large printed pamphlet, your memorialists again pray attention, and particularly to the address and petition presented early in the last sessions of the Legislature; which has an immediate connexion with that important object, then and now claiming the most serious public consideration—namely "the means of introducing a copious supply of water into our city and suburbs, as well for culinary uses, as for cleansing our streets, the extinguishment of fire, and for Fountains and Reservoirs, tending both to ornament, health, and a purer atmosphere, in the dry and warm seasons."

Your memorialists, by section 3d and 5th of their act of incorporation, are authorised and empowered, by means of the said Canal, "to supply the city of Philadelphia and its neighborhood, with water" (for the aforesaid purposes) "at limited prices, in proportion to the capital to be expended on the work; and, for that end, to take as much water from the river Schuylkill at, or within a mile below the mouth of Stony Creek, as will pass through a water-way of thirty feet in width;" and also, if any lower Cut between Delaware and Schuylkill, for the general purposes of the works, be necessary near the city, they are vested with power "to take water from any of the streams lying between the North bounds of the same and the distance of eight miles therefrom, and to conduct them into the said Canal:" which includes the waters of Wissahickon-Creek, the Runs emptying at, and below, the Falls, Cobockson-Creek, the three mile-run, Logan's mill-run, and Frankford-Creek.

That the act of incorporation was founded chiefly on the statement of a previous survey and level, made from Philadelphia to Norristown at private expence, with a view to watering the city, and finding a point in Schuylkill, from which a supply of water might be carried to the highest part in the ground plots of the city and its suburbs, adequate to all the purposes contemplated for health, use and ornament upon any probable increase of inhabitants for generations yet to come; and to be, at the same time, connected with the great plan of our Inland Navigation.

That as soon as the company was organized, the President and Managers (although they had full confidence in the accuracy of the previous level, ascertaining the river Schuylkill, at the mouth of Stone-Creek, to be of sufficient height above the highest part of the City, for the joint purposes of watering the same, and of navigation) were sensible that more remained to be done before they could commence their operations; and, therefore, on the 21st of August 1792, a special committee of three members was appointed, with the following instructions, viz. "To examine, survey & level the ground, between Schuylkill and Delaware from the upper side of Stone-Creek, to the north bounds of the city; and to determine and mark out the most eligible track for the intended Canal; and also to ascertain its dimensions, with the grounds necessary to be purchased for the same." This Committee compleated the business of their appointment, in the month of September, and the beginning of October following, having placed 113 level-stakes from Norriton mill-dam to Broad-street continued, that is, one stake or post in about every fifty perches, the whole distance or length of the Canal being seventeen miles and 255 perches; and having reported at large to the Board of Managers, they immediately commenced and prosecuted their operations, until the arrival of their Engineer from England; whose first service was to re-examine the proposed track and level of the Canal, with the projections and plans for carrying on, and compleating, the same. The result was, that in the three * separate levels, he found a perfect agreement, within about two inches, in 17 miles and three quarters; and that the dimensions and track of the Canal, from the nature of the ground, could not have been laid off better; excepting only that he recommended a greater slope in the banks. That although failing of success in our applications to the Legislature for aid, either by loan, free gift or participation of shares (after the example of the Legislatures of sundry neighboring states whose aid to their inland navigation has given it greatly the start of ours) your memorialists nevertheless, still depending on the future aid of an enlightened Legislature, continued their exertions; and their last address to the Legislature in December, 1797, (to which they now refer more at large) represented,—"That with great satisfaction they observed a deep and serious impression made upon the minds of the citizens of this commonwealth, from the losses and calamities occasioned by the former, and then recent, pestilential and contagious sickness in our metropolis and its vicinity; and that, as a means, under Divine Providence, of guarding against future visitations of a like kind, or allaying their severity, whether the contagion be imported from abroad, or generates at home, it was the opinion of the ablest medical characters, sanctioned by the address of the chief executive magistrate, that the interposition of the legislature will be indispensible, in order to ensure such a supply of water through the medium of canals, for the cleanliness and convenience of the city, and its environs in the Northern Liberties and Southwark, as appears to have become essential to the general convenience, as well as to the health of the community;" to which it was added by the Executive Magistrate, in very pathetic terms, that "the business of the city had (then) twice within a period of four years (and now thrice within a period of five years, with aggravated severity) been deranged, its population dispersed, and its prosperity endangered; and that the whole commonwealth was, therefore, deeply concerned, independent of every sentiment of compassion, and upon a mere calculation of interest to employ every effort of wisdom and finance, to protect the seat of our government and commerce from the return of so dreadful an evil." Your memorialists further represented, in their Address and Petition aforesaid, "That the Canal under their direction, being in great forwardness (indeed at least half compleated in expense, according to their Act of Incorporation to answer the double purpose of navigation and watering the city) if duly aided by the Legislature, and Corporate Bodies of the city and its suburbs, would yield the surest and readiest means for accomplishing the benevolent purposes proposed, and that probably within the short period of two years; and that they considered it as their duty, by every means in their power, to expedite so great a work, under the sanction, and with the aid of the Legislative and Corporate Bodies aforesaid;" submitting to the Legislature a proposition under three heads, for a speedy issue to the undertaking.

That early in the said month of December, upon the application of the Select and Common Councils of the city of Philadelphia, a negociation was commenced between them and the Canal Board, and Committees appointed on each part, viz. a joint Committee for the Select and Common Councils, and also a joint Committee of the Managers and Stockholders of the Canal Company. In an early stage of this negociation, sundry queries were made on the part of the joint Committee of the City Councils, to the joint Committee of the Managers and Stockholders of the Canal Company, and answered by the latter, December 19th, 1797, in their address to the former, annexed to the printed report of the Select and Common Councils, to which your memorialists refer for the general account of the whole negociation between the two bodies, dated January 31st 1798. In that report it is stated by the joint committee of the select and common councils, "That among the various methods which have been suggested, for introducing a sufficient quantity of wholesome water into the city, none have appeared to your committee so well calculated to ensure the attainment of that desireable object, as the completion of the Delaware and Schuylkill Canal; That impressed with this belief, and convinced that the prosecution of this object, would also contribute to aid the great and important undertaking of inland navigation as this canal forms a capital link in the great chain of navigation between our metropolis, and the Ohio and the western lakes;" they considered "that in addition to contributing to the health of the community, they would encrease the prosperity of the city by taking effectual measures for accomplishing this undertaking;" in which opinion the canal committee could not but heartily concur;—more especially as the introducing a copious supply of water into the city and its suburbs, was one of the chief objects of our incorporation; upon which object, in order to construct the canal upon a level and of dimensions sufficient for accommodating the city and suburbs with water (to the amount of half a million of cubic feet per hour) a sum has been already expended, at least equal to what the canal for the purposes of navigation alone would have cost; and therefore that the double object of watering the city, and compleating the canal as a great link of navigation for the special benefit of the city, as well as of our general country commerce, ought not to be separated; and indeed, in the belief of your memorialists, cannot be separated, as no other source, except from Schuylkill as high as Stone creek, can be found for the necessary quantity of water; and if such necessary quantity could be found by the junction of various other streams, the cost would far exceed that of introducing water by means of that canal, and occasion a great loss of time, in exploring new sources, when an obvious plan is at hand, and half compleated at the cost of the stockholders of the canal company.

Your memorialists need scarcely add that the negociation between the Canal company and the city councils necessarily terminated with the last session of the legislature, without producing any effect for the great object in view, no funds being provided or aid given to enable the canal corporation, or the corporation of the city, either jointly or separately, to prosecute the work, or their respective parts of it, according to the act so as to answer the [illegible] purpose by means of the canal of introducing water for the use of the city and promoting our inland navigation.

* The 1st or previous level was made as private citizens chiefly by Tench Francis and Timothy Matlack Esqrs.; the 2d as a committee of the Canal Company, by David Rittenhouse, L. L. D. William Smith, D. D. and Samuel Powell Esq. and the 3d by Wm. Weston, Esq. engineer.

Your memorialists, therefore pray, for themselves, and on behalf of the corporate bodies of the city and suburbs, as well as of any other bodies, who from the pressing necessity of the measure may wish, on terms on reciprocal public spirit and usefulness, to unite the funds in their power, or committed to their trust—that the legislature may grant and appropriate, the duties on sales at auction, the house built for the President of the United States and lots thereunto attached; or so much of their stock in the Bank of Pennsylvania, as being pledged with the stock of the canal company, will finally compleat the great work and secure an interest to the commonwealth, equal at least to what they can now draw from the appropriations solicited by your memorialists, joined to the high satisfaction which a wise and humane legislature must derive, in being the happy instruments of so much benefit to their country.

By order and on behalf of the corporation.

WM. SANSOM, President.

Domestic Articles.

NORFOLK, December 13.

On Monday arrived here in distress the ship Sally, capt. Gelston, of, and bound to Philadelphia, 50 days from the bay of Honduras. The above vessel had got into the Delaware with a pilot on board, but was blown out from her anchors; she then made for Cape Henry, and was blown on shore on the Horse-shoe; where she lay for 13 days. Capt. Larcum, of the English sloop of war Hind, now in Hampton Roads, being informed of her situation, sent down 30 seamen, under the command of the master's mate, the carpenter of his crew, a pilot, and spare anchors and cables; had it not been for their timely assistance the ship must have gone to pieces, as a violent gale from the N. E. came on the next day.

Capt Gelston cannot withold the opportunity of thus publickly returning his unfeigned thanks to Capt. Larcum of the Hind British sloop of war, for the assistance he furnished him; he acknowledges the favour the more readily, as he had a signal of distress flying seven days, and could obtain no assistance by it.

Capt. Gelston informs us, that on the 18th of July a turtling boat arrived at Belize river, with information that she had been chaced by a Spanish brig which was part of a fleet consisting of 28 sail of vessels, under convoy of two frigates, from Mexico fitted out for the purpose of destroying the British settlement on that river; this vessel also had accounts of their force, which consisted of 2000 troops under the command of general O'Neil, Viceroy of Yucatan; the ships under command of Don Cosmar.

On the arrival of this news an embargo was laid on all the shipping. About the 18th of August two Spaniards were taken prisoners, that had deserted from the fleet at Ambergrease; these men confirmed the news and related there were four gun boats, with four 24 pounders each, a schooner mounting eighteen fixes and a sloop with 12 guns. Immediate preparations were now made to repel them; a half moon battery was erected under the inspection of Colonel Barrow, to the southward of Fort Dundas; martial law was proclaimed, and the negroes called into the service; the wood scows were converted into gunboats, a schooner and four sloops were armed, and every preparation made.

On the 18th September the fleet was discovered at Key Chapelle; Capt. Moss, of the Merlin sloop of war, sent out two sloops to St. George's Key, which had partial actions with them for two days. On the 23d, in the afternoon, the whole Spanish fleet got under way and 8 of the heaviest vessels with several launches came down inside the reef, with intent to force the English from their station, when a very heavy fire from the sloops and scows broke their line, and threw them into confusion, from which they never recovered, but made off as fast as they could. Capt. G. says the English had 250 men ashore, among whom were 40 whites.

SALEM, December 18.

Capt. Endicott, late master of a brig from this port, that was taken and condemned at Guadaloupe, had the good fortune himself to get over to Martinique, and has since returned home.

Capt. Thos Holman has also returned from captivity at the same island, stripped of every thing, almost to his shirt. He came by the way of New-York, where a subscription was raised at the coffee-house, which generously furnished him with clothes.

We are informed that Guadaloupe feels no inconvenience from the law for suspending our trade with the French, as they derive a full supply of every article this country affords, from their numerous privateers (exceeding 100 in number) and from a brisk trade from St. Thomas's little interrupted at present by the British. Six dollars would buy a barrel of flour, and other provisions were proportionably low. It is represented that half a dozen of our ships could completely blockade the island, and a general wish is expressed that this may take place. The first inquiry made by persons of Guadaloupe is, "What is become of our ships of war?" We hope the question will soon be satisfactorily answered, as we are sure our Executive does not for a moment lose sight of the public interests.

Accounts have been received at the southward from Martinique, that the expedition was forming there, to be commanded by Gen Knox, who had lately arrived from England.—Its destination was kept a profound secret, but was supposed to be against Guadaloupe or Surinam.

Against the law providing for the removal of dangerous alien Enemies, it has been urged, that such men could not, by the constitution, be touched without the intervention on a jury——"Nearly as well (observes the venerable Judge Cushing in his charge to a Virginian Grand Jury) might it be said, in case a hostile army was to land on our coast, that we must summon juries to try the soldiers of that army, before we could proceed to abridge them of their liberty."

LEGISLATURE of PENNSYLVANIA.

GENTLEMEN,

Dr. Pringle on Camp Diseases, p 31 edit. 1st informs us, that in the year 1743, one general hospital being opened for the reception of the sick at Newied the sick were removed from their several quarters and carried down the Rhine to that place; where by change of air, those with the hospital or malignant fever from Peckenheim were at first relieved, but the rest who mixed with them, caught the infection, which the following circumstance rendered still more general and fatal. For orders coming soon after to remove the hospital from Germany to Flanders, all the sick were embarked in Bilanders, and conveyed by water to Ghent; but they did not arrive there till the middle of December. So that in this tedious voyage, the fever having acquired new force by the confinement of the air, mortifications, and other putrid effluvia, it was raised to such an extraordinary pitch of virulence, that above half the number died by the way, and several more soon after their arrival.

The resemblance of this fever to a true pestilence, was farther evinced by this remarkable incident: ——A parcel of tents were put on board the same bilanders with the sick, and being to be refitted at Ghent, was put into the hands of a tradesman, who employed 23 journeymen about the work; but those unfortunate men were quickly seized with a malignant fever, and 17 of them died.

The same respectable author has given an account of a malignant fever being occasioned by the contagion which issued from certain criminals, who had been long confined in prison, that were tried at the Old Bailey in the year 1750, though they were apparently free from disease themselves, at the time they were brought into court. A similar instance had been recorded by lord Verulam in the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

The experienced Lind has recorded numerous examples of a similar kind. Among others he mentions the following:

"The Flora frigate took on board three Englishmen out of a Dutch ship in the Downs, bound to Batavia on board of which a contagious fever was then prevalent. Two of these men were apparently in perfect health, the other had a fever resembling a quartidian. These men had been but a few days on board, before several of the crew of the Flora were attacked with a malignant continued fever"

"When the men from the Cambridge (in the year 1758, one of the most healthy ships in the fleet) became infected, their infection did not proceed from any person that was sick in the Neptune, where they had been on board; for every one that had been sick in that vessel had been sent on shore but from the infection which had been received from them and preserved in certain articles in the ship."—(Poper on Infection, p 22.)

The same author asserts that on board most of the ships of war, (in 1758 & 1759) the contagion was traced either from the princess Royal, or other guard ships unseasoned landsmen, recruits received from jails infected persons, or infected ships.—(Item. p. 26.

Similar examples are contained in the writings of the ingenious Dr. Blane, and more recently in a work entitled the Medicina Nautica, by Dr. Trotter,

Dr Lind has also mentioned that the Yellow Fever was introduced into Philadelphia, in the year 1741, by a trunk of infected clothing, received by a family in Water street from Barbadoes. And Dr. Linning has asserted, that every time it had appeared in Charleston, it had been traced to some infected person or vessel lately arrived from the West Indies.

Dr. Mitchel, of Virginia informs Dr. Franklin, that it had been twice brought into Virginia by English ships of war, which had been cruising in the American seas.

Dr. Monson has published an account of the Yellow Fever which prevailed in New-Haven in 1794, and proves by incontestible evidence, that it was imported from the West Indies.

If it were not superfluous to dwell upon a subject familiar to every person acquainted with medical history, I might mention many more instances of malignant fevers being occasioned by contagion retained in the clothing of seamen, tho' no person was known to be sick on board at the time such fevers originated. But the examples already mentioned may suffice.

That the Yellow Fever is also contagious in the West India islands in certain situations and circumstances, is a fact fully established by the examples recorded by several authors, who have had the best opportunities of making observations on the subject. A few of these I shall proceed to state for the satisfaction of those who are not in possession of the books in which they are contained.

The Rev. Griffith Hughs, in his Natural History of Barbados, p. 37, says, he was informed by Dr. Gamble, a respectable physician in that Island, that he remembered to have seen the Yellow Fever there in the year 1691, and that it was then called the new distemper. That it was most prevalent among, and most fatal to strangers, though a great many of the inhabitants died of it in the year 1696, and a great many at different periods since.—Mr Hughs also describes the symptoms as they appeared in Barbadoes in the year 1715.

To John Ward Fenno.

I saw your Gazette of Tuesday last, in which you inserted your list of United Irishmen, and could not help pitying the author of the virulent abuse with which it was prefaced.

I then thought that the malice and ill nature which your attack displayed, would sufficiently defeat its own intention, in the opinion of a candid public. I believe I was not mistaken. It only remains for me to hail you upon the exculpation with which you have ingenuously favored these gentlemen whom you had formerly endeavored to implicate, in crimes so very enormous—In Saturday's gazette you say, you called neither John Black nor Samuel Parke an United Irishman. If this be true, you called no one in the list an United Irishman; for all the persons mentioned, are, in respect of charge precisely in the same predicament. This declaration, however contradictory to common sense, and the plain and literal meaning of language, furnishes an answer to your question of Tuesday, under the head, 'List of United Irishmen,' viz. "Why should I mention the names of Samuel Wylie, John Black, &c.? The answer is evident—because it would be a LIE: and why should I belch out my malicious abuse upon innocent characters? But since you say you did not call these persons United Irishmen, whose names you inserted in your list of United Irishmen, pray, what criminal appellation did you give them? or why did you mention their names, rather than, John Ward Fenno, Peter Porcupine, or his Holiness, the Pope? After you except the names of all the gentlemen inserted in your list, seeing you say you did not call them United Irishmen, please inform the public who these gentlemen are that really do compose the black catalogue. Or does your list of names consist of no names at all? Are the 40,000 you mention, also of this description? After all is the state still in danger! What grand discoveries! Before I leave you, I request you to be as good as your word. You promised to name them. "Do I hear some one cry, name them! name them! Lend me your patience and so I will." Why are you so dilatory in performing your promise? Surely their names cannot have escaped your vigilance. Surely the public behold with sympathy, the mountain in travail, and feel concerned that almost eight days are elapsed and nothing brought forth.

Although I am altogether indifferent whether you believe me to be an United Irishman or not, yet to save you the trouble of a future blunder on this subject, when you may again feel disposed to retail your unfounded calumnies, I solemnly declare that I never was in any Society of United Irishmen in America, and that I am privy to none of their designs. So wishing you more candor, I am, &c.

SAMUEL WYLIE.

December 23, 1798.

[So much for Mr. Samuel Wiley, whom I suspect my readers will find much less wily than he thinks himself. Like his profound compeers, he begins by inveighing against my virulent abuse of United Irishmen, my "calumnies," my "malice and ill-nature;" but while these have closed their justifications by extolling views the imputation of which to themselves they had affected to esteem calumnious, citizen Wiley contents him with barely expressing his supreme indifference to that very (ideal) charge, which he set out by styling virulently abusive, ill-natured and malicious.

He solemnly declares he never was in any Society of United Irishmen in America. Why were these two last loitering words lugged in so lamely? If he was an United Irishman in Ireland, and remains a disaffected Irishman in America, it must require more candor than he calls for, to believe that he is "privy to none of their designs."

I now no longer doubt him an United Irishman. He is "altogether indifferent" whether I believe him one or not, and I think he will find it necessary to extend his indifference to the public also; for I verily think, they will somehow or other take up the same odd opinion.

Amidst all the affected insolence of these people, I discover the most abject fear—and that kind of fear, too, which is the invariable attendant of guilt. What THEY should fear, heaven knows, as heaven knows that they are honest, wise and virtuous. What THEY should fear from a government which never whirled its impetuous rota over the body of one innocent man, (but colonel Matthew Lyon); what THEY should fear under a government, which would shiver to flinders like a Lapland palace of ice, at the first instance of oppression on an honest man; what THEY should fear in a country where the remembrance of origin, and the temper of all political institutions, added to an humane disposition to commiserate misfortune when not drawn down by damning villainy, operate to form them almost into a privileged order;—Heaven knows: AND YET THEY FEAR.]

Port Penn, December 24, 1798.

MORE LIBERTY AND EQUALITY—GOOD.

Mr. FENNO,

A few days ago, while the Cartel ship Neptune lay at the Diamond peer at this port, a farmer of this neighborhood (a good Republican) went on board of her to deliver some apples he had sold to one of the passengers (a Frenchman.) The crew, consisting of black, yellow, copper and olive colours, surrounded him, and some, with drawn knives and daggers, threatened to put him to death, calling him a damn'd Anglo-American, which forced the farmer to take his chance in the river, and he accordingly jumped overboard, and was taken up in a boat from the shore, or he would have drowned.

DITTO.

The night before the said Cartel ship sailed from the port, the brigantine Pomona was discovered all in a blaze late in the night, as she lay in a fleet of shipping at the Lower peers, along side of two Algerine vessels, the United States brigantine Sophia, the Revenue Cutter, and several other American armed vessels, all ready for sea, waiting a wind, which must all have blown up, but for the exertions of the crew, the tide being out and the armed vessels were chiefly aground.

A SUBSCRIBER.

[It is positively reported that the abovementioned brigantine Pomona was burned by the cartel. The watch having left the brig without a soul on board, four persons were observed by the watch in the vessel next her, to go, from the cartel, on board the Pomona; two of whom went down forward, and two aft. In about an hour the vessel was completely enveloped in flames. Our experience of the baseness of Frenchmen forbids us to doubt in a case where the proof is so clear, and any one must possess a wonderful share of charity, who believes they would not with equal composure, have burned down the city, or the continent itself.]

Easton, (P.) Dec. 23, 1798.

THE leaders of the democratic faction in this district had calculated upon Mr. Brown our representative in congress as a thorough going partyman. They flattered themselves that immediately on his taking his seat in the house, he would enlist under the banners of the long headed Genevan, and follow him through thick and thin. But thank God! they are disappointed in their man. Mr. Brown has proved by his votes, that he really is, what those who knew him best, always believed him to be, an honest American devoted to no party.

When our jacobins found his name honorably recorded with those of Messrs. Craik, Goodrich, Harper, &c. they were thunderstruck. They shook their heads, looked vastly wise, and were puzzled almost to distraction to account for such an unexpected event,—when at length, one among them of more sagacity and penetration than the rest, observed with becoming solemnity that as Mr. Brown acted only as the proxy of Mr. Sitgreaves, during the present session, he was bound by the rules of the house to vote as Mr. S. would have done.

Salem, December 18.

Accounts from St. Ubes, by the way of Savannah and Baltimore, say, that 3 Sallee frigates had been spoke with off Lisbon, who said they were cruising for Americans, Russians, Bremen-men and Lubeck-men.

We hear that a 28-gun ship, owned in N. York, and bound thither from St. Croix, lately went ashore in good weather on Cape Cod, owing to mismanagement, and vessel and cargo were lost.

A CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.
JOHN A. SHAEFFER, of Philadelphia, who has for a few years past been in the southern States, has had the effrontery to draw several Bills of Exchange on Timothy Pickering, Esq. Secretary of State, and myself, and by that means has defrauded a number of persons of their money, deceiving them by an exhibition of letters and papers with the names affixed of divers public characters and reputable merchants highly recommendatory of said Shaeffer; to one of these papers I find my name subscribed, but I do not know the man; these are villainous forgeries! To prevent further imposition, I have to request the printers of Newspapers in the United States to publish this for the benefit of their fellow-citizens. SAMUEL MEREDITH,

Valuable Property for Sale.
FOR SALE,
THAT well known Estate, called SHREWSBURR FARM, formerly the residence of General John Cadwaladar, situate on Sassafras River, in Kent county, Maryland—containing about 1900 acres of prime LAND upwards of 500 of which are in woods. The Buildings are all excellent, and consist of a handsome Dwelling House, two large Barns with Cow houses, Stables for fifty horses, a spacious treading floor under cover, a granary, two Overseer's houses, two ranges of two story buildings for Negroes (one of them new and of brick), Corn houses a Smoak House, &c. &c.—The whole Estate being nearly surrounded by water, it requires but little fencing, and has a good Shad and Herring fishery. It is conveniently situated for both the Philadelphia and Baltimore markets, with two landings on a navigable river but a short sail from Baltimore. There is a large Peach, and two large Apple Orchards on the premises; also, a variety of excellent fruits of different kinds. The soil is mostly a rich loam.—The whole will be sold together or divided into smaller farms (for which the buildings are conveniently situated) as may suit the purchaser. The Stock on said Farm, consisting of Horses, Cattle, Sheep &c. will also be disposed of.—For further particulars apply to GEORGE HASTINGS on the premises, or to the subscriber, in Philadelphia.

THIS DAY PUBLISHED,
By WILLIAM YOUNG,
Corner of Chesnut and Second-streets,
JOAN OF ARC,
AN EPIC POEM,
By Robert Southey; with notes.
"WE do not hesitate to declare our opinion that the poetical powers displayed in it are of a very superior kind—Conceptions more lofty and daring, sentiments more commanding, and language more energetic will not easily be found;—nor does scarcely any part of it sink into languor, as the glow of feelings and genius animates the whole. The language is, for the most part, modelled on that of Milton; and not unfrequently, it has a strong relish of Shakespeare."

A HISTORY, OR ANECDOTES OF THE REVOLUTION IN RUSSIA,
IN THE YEAR 1762.
Translated from the French of M. de Rulhiere;
With an elegant Head of the late Empress.
[The second edition, price 75 cents.]
"The grounds of M. de Rulhiere's information seem indisputable, and his readers appear to have every reason to be satisfied with his discernment, in unfolding the motives and circumstances that concurred in bringing about this striking event.
"We shall only add, that we have seldom met with more interesting original anecdotes, than those that are contained in the little work which we have now reviewed."
